Table D: Particular Interests and Special Features

University	Particular Interests	Special Features
University of Birmingham	The Department of African Studies and Anthropology brings together a wide range of disciplines spanning arts and social sciences - history, sociology, geography, politics, language, literature and anthropology (both cultural and development-oriented) - and fosters interaction between them. The diversity of regional and disciplinary perspectives is unified by a common focus on local knowledge, a commitment to long-term field and archival work in Africa and the Caribbean, and collaboration with African and Caribbean colleagues. This underpins all our work.	You can apply to study abroad for a year in an approved university around the world. If you achieve a grade of 2.1 or above in your first year then you will be invited to apply for a Year Abroad in your second year. If your application is successful, you will go abroad in your third year and return to us for your final year. Find out more at birmingham.ac.uk/yearabroad . As a Single Honours student in the Department of African Studies and Anthropology you can also apply to spend a semester abroad at one of our carefully selected partner universities, where we have close personal ties with academic staff. If your application is successful, during your time abroad you will be able to study modules in related subjects, including topics specific to the place of study. It is possible to attend universities where all the modules offered will be taught in English.
